

Post-season Basketball Basics

FUNDAMENTAL CAMP

Perimeter and Post Development

The post-season fundamental camp is a skill development and training program. This program (boys and girls ages 6 – 11) will help provide young players with the opportunity to build a solid fundamental base for the game of basketball. Instructors will work with each participant as an individual, with the attention to basic skills of proper shooting technique, ball handling and passing, rebounding, and defense. After attention to the basic skills, the participants will be instructed as to how such skills are best utilized in the team concept. Coach Green will work diligently to provide the future players with the necessary skill development to improve for the season. He will provide motivational and inspirational messages to encourage them to work hard in their academic achievements.

Ed Green has over 40 years of combined experience as a coach at the college and high school level.
